SWAT Training at Eagle Harbor

The Washington State Patrol SWAT team will be conducting a training exercise at Washington State Ferry's Eagle Harbor Maintenance Facility on Bainbridge Island. The training will be conducted Friday March 24th, 2006 from 8 a.m. until approximately 5 p.m.

Members of the Washington State Patrol SWAT team will be working with Tacoma Police Department's SWAT team in vessel familiarization and tactical maneuvers. Troopers assigned to the Washington State Patrol SWAT team often conduct joint training exercises with other special response teams and SWAT teams. In a real life response, or call out, law enforcement agencies frequently respond together to bring a peaceful resolution to a crisis. This training exercise will allow separate teams to respond in unison to proficiently handle a maritime threat.

All training will be contained inside the maintenance facility. Unlike training in the past, no noise or other distractions should be heard as a result of this training.
